Raiders defeat Jeff. Forest

The varsity Raiders split in basketball action last week, defeating Jefferson Forest 58-56 Tuesday night, but losing to Nelson County 60-54 Friday.

Forest jumped to an 18-16 lead Tuesday, but the Raiders came back to lead at the half, 35-28. As the third quarter ended, the Raider led by four at 43-39, and the local team outplayed Forest in the final period to win 58-56.

Shane Abernathy led Raider scorers with 20 points, followed by Kevin Ferguson with 11, Jeff Miller with 10, Marvin Johnson with nine, and Jody Williams and Rick Caldwell, with four each.

Coach Coty Dickerson commended his team for doing a "good job of moving the ball and getting it inside to Shane (Abernathy)." He noted that the Raiders hit on 20 of 27 freethrows for the night.

Despite a 27-point fourth quarter, the Raiders could not overcome a poor third quarter Friday and lost to Nelson County, 60-54.

The Raiders played Nelson close in the first half, and trailed 25-20 as that half ended. In the third quarter, however, the local team could manage only seven points, and fell behind 40-27. In the final period, The Raiders stormed back for the "best quarter of basketball this year," according to Dickerson, but the 27 points were not enough to surpass Nelson, and the game ended at 60-54, favor of Nelson County.

Change reports advised

By TOM CONRAD

ASCS Advises Farmers to Report Changes, Prove Yields - Appomatox County farmers are urged to report changes in their farm operations for the 1981 program year.

For ASCS to help producers get program benefits, farm records must be up to date. Therefore, producers should contact the county ASCS office if there has been a change in the land owned or operated, if a farm will have a new owner effective for 1981, or if a change is made in the operation of an existing unit.

Requests to combine farms or divide a farm should be made as soon as possible because reconstitutions require special processing as well as county committee approval.

Farmers who want to obtain proven yields for 1981 feed grains or wheat must substantiate production on all acreages for the crops.

Production evidence must be kept separate for each year and for each farm. When yield notices are sent out, farmers will be given the opportunity to request a proven yield if production evidence so warrants.

Emergency Feed Program Update - As a result of the 1980 drought, there are currently 68 counties authorized to make payments under this program. The last day to file an application was December 31, 1980.

As of December 31, approximately 2,350 applications were filed. Payments have totaled $1,038,000, with this figure expected to climb over $8 million in the next three of four months.

Eligible livestock producers are reimbursed for 50 percent of the cost of the feed purchased not to exceed 3 cents per pound of feed grain equivalent.

Application of Lime - To what pH should you lime your soil? Fortunately plants have a wide pH tolerance range. However, the best pH range will vary somewhat with the crop be be grown and soil type.

Most crops do best on will-limed soils. Alfalfa is very sensitive to soil acidity and produces best within a pH range of 6.5 to 7.0. Other forage legumes such as the clovers, birdfoot trefoil and the vetches are somewhat less sensitive than alfalfa to soil acidity. These legumes do well within a pH range of 6.0 to 7.0.

Small grains are generally considered to have a wide range of tolerance to soil acidity. Oats seems to produce well as a pH as acids as 5.5 or on well limed soil. Wheat does well within a pH range of 6.0 to 7.0, Barley, however, is almost as sensitive to soil acidity as alfalfa and should be grown on soil limed to pH 6.5 to 7.0.

Corn also has a wide range of tolerance to soil acidity. Although, on many soils, it will produc well on soils as acid as pH 5.8, it is better to keep corn land above pH 6.2 for good weed control.

Consideration should also be given to soil texture. In general, sandy soils should not be limed as heavily as loams or clay loams. Micronutrient deficiencies may be a problem on sandy soils when lime to pHs above 6.5.

There are some acid loving plants. Soils for blueberries, rhododendron and azaleas very rarely need to be limed. These soils should be kept within a pH range of 5.0 to 6.0.

Whatever crop you are growing, lime the soil to the safety zone. Don't shoot for the razor's edge. Lime at least to the middle of the desirable pH range. By liming to the high side, you can wait several years before relriming. Your liming practice is no place to try to
